

Find yourself asking WTF recently?

If so, you'll be happy we've started the What's The Function blog to help you navigate unprecedented times with unprecedented equipment.

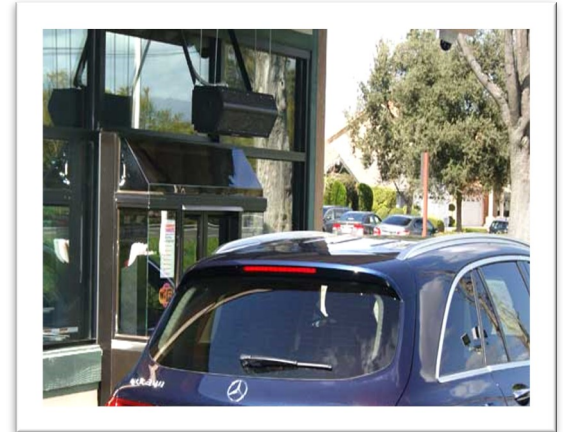

The cold weather has arrived and due to a succession of CoVid19 surges and subsequent restrictions you have increased your focus on your take-out menu.

How to deal with customers going in and out the front door, or increased drive thru traffic without losing even more money in additional heating costs?

Mars Air Curtains are the solution.

WTF? An air curtain is a vertical shield of air that separates climate-controlled indoor air from outside temperatures, flying insects and windborne pollutants.

To learn more:

Why does your Artisan Stone deck oven have a water filter?
WTF?

To achieve the beautiful crunch on a rustic style loaf of bread the oven is equipped with a programmable mist cycle. Helpful hint: All machinery with incoming water lines should have a water filter to protect equipment from scale build-up.

To learn more:

With a renewed focus on our health, and the health of the environment let's discuss MODwater as we ask WTF?

MODwater is the only water dispenser on the market that offers a variety of water choices in a small footprint: chilled, sparkling, alkaline and hot water. We all understand how important water is for your health, now you can have it four different ways.

The Canadian government has a stated to goal of banning single use plastics by as early as 2021. MODwater is great for businesses looking to adapt.

More here

